

A drift alarm proposes, but does not justify, promotion; construction and evidence comparability precede validation, which is conditional, not universal.